RECOMMENDATIONS

1. The Task and Finish Group recommends the following to Cabinet:

Recommendation One

There be consideration of additional resource being established to assist with analysing data gathered during stock condition surveys. It is considered that having a clear picture and analysis of the stock condition data will enable senior leaders and members to prioritise investment based on resident safety and impact.

Recommendation Two

Improve the resident repair journey by reducing appointment windows and including a digital / online tracking element so that residents can track the raising of their repair order, view their appointment slot, track lateness and reschedule their appointment online if necessary as well as provide feedback on the service immediately after.

Recommendation Three

Co-design the repairs and maintenance contract specifications with residents and communicate with tenants how tenants' voice has influenced service design.

Recommendation Four

Use resident provided feedback and data in robust monitoring of repairs and maintenance contracts.

Recommendation Five

The Borough Residents' Forum constitution and future meeting dates should therefore be revised and updated to reflect the change in the Council's governance.

Recommendation Six

Tenant and leaseholder representation be included in the governance arrangements monitoring performance and delivery of improvements to the Council's managed housing stock.

Recommendation Seven

Commission specialist external consultants on the engagement strategy, to include both the formal engagement structures including Residents Associations, and informal engagement processes, with a view to concluding their review by June 2026.

2. The Task and Finish Group recommends the following to the Housing Overview and Scrutiny Committee:

Recommendation Eight

The Tenant Satisfaction Measures be presented to the Housing Overview and Scrutiny Committee on an annual basis.

Recommendation Nine

The Committee continue to scrutinise and oversee progress and include the matter on their work programme post-election.

INTRODUCTION

3. At the 18th June 2025 Housing Overview and Scrutiny Committee, Members requested that a task and finish group be established in response to the C3 grading by the Regulator of Social Housing following their inspection in late 2024 and the publication of their findings in February 2025. Members wanted to ensure that improvements were made, and measures were put in place so that all consumer standards were met and council tenants were provided with the highest quality service, with a view to ensuring a higher grade is achieved when the Council is re-inspected.

4. The Social Housing Improvement Task and Finish Group was subsequently established, with the membership comprising Councillors Stock (Chair), Ayres, Davies, Govindia and Mrs Graham. The Group also agreed to invite residents Tom Glockner, Vice-Chair of the Borough Residents' Forum (BRF) and Joanna Playford, Tenant representative of the Association of Retained Council Housing (ARCH) to their November and December meetings.

5. The Group first met on 22nd September and agreed their objectives to monitor and scrutinise improvement actions in relation to the Regulator of Social Housing Inspection Report and the Council's engagement with the Housing Ombudsman and the Building Safety Regulator as well as feedback received through resident engagement structures, with a view to gaining assurance that the Council will be in a position to achieve a higher grading when re-inspected, and to ensure that the changes are sustainable and enduring, so tenants are always provided the highest quality of services.

6. Members agreed that the areas for consideration as part of the review would involve scrutiny of the adequacy and ambition of the Housing Department's Improvement Plan in response to the C3 grading. The review would also include identifying measures and milestones towards the achievement of a higher grading, with a focus on:

- Plans for stock condition surveys
- The performance of the electrical safety check programme
- Performance in relation to fire remedial actions
- Plans for informal residential engagement
- Tracking performance in relation to repairs

7. The Group hoped to contribute to the commitment to achieving the best possible rating but at the very least achieving a C2 grading, noting that the timings of any reassessment and/or re-inspection are at the discretion of the regulator. The Group's role in achieving this outcome will be through the scrutiny of improvement actions and in making recommendations as determined through the course of the review.

The Chair attended the Borough Residents Forum to present an interim report on 20th November, and an estate walkabout on 3rd December on the Eastwood South estate. The Chair, along with officers, also attended a Parent Champions' meeting on 12th December at the Training Resource Centre to gather feedback from tenants to inform the Task and Finish Group's report into the plan for improvements to social housing following the Regulator of Social Housing's report.

FINDINGS AND RECOMMENDATIONS

10. Below is a summary of some of the key matters and recommendations considered by the Task and Finish Group, with updated figures and data as of 9th January.

Improvement Tracker

11. The Housing Improvement Plan was not ready to be shared with the Group during the course of the review. The reasons for this were explained to the Group and it was noted that there had been a Housing Improvement Programme Board in place to steer its development. With the establishment of the Resident Services department on 1st October 2025, Members were advised that officers had needed more time to work on the wider plan, including displaying the priorities within it, developing a RAG status, and ensuring appropriate funding for those actions. The format of the plan also needed to be first confirmed with the Social Housing Regulator.

12. It was noted that the Housing Improvement Plan was due to be considered by the Cabinet at its meeting of 26th January 2026. The Task and Finish Group noted their aspiration for the recommendations they made to be reflected in the Housing Improvement Plan.

13. There had been discussions in relation to resident involvement in the development of the Improvement Plan, but it was noted that due to time constraints this had not been possible on this occasion. However, the Task and Finish Group had sought assurance that with stronger resident engagement more generally in future, that tenants' and leaseholders' voices and feedback would shape future iterations and versions of the Improvement Plan.

14. Despite there not being an agreed Housing Improvement Plan, Members were assured that improvement works had still been ongoing and were presented with an Improvement Tracker at their November and December meetings. It was noted that the Improvement Tracker was provided for the Social Housing Regulator on a monthly basis. It was noted that the Social Housing Regulator's comments on the Improvement Tracker had so far been positive overall.

Stock Condition Surveys

14. Members were provided with an explanation of how the Stock Condition surveys were undertaken and it was reported that the department was performing well in terms of undertaking the stock condition surveys in relation to its commitment to survey 100% of tenanted homes. 2,540 property surveys and 1,320 block surveys had been undertaken by the end of 2025, with the department having exceeded its goal of 2,900 by the end of the year.

15. The Group was advised that the initial target had been to inspect all blocks within five years so the Council could provide assurance on the decency of its homes but had recently been revised to achieve 100% of surveys by the end of 2026. The Group endorsed the revised timescale which recognises the urgency required to effectively prioritise maintenance and inform investment in the Council's housing stock.

16. Members heard that a large amount of data was being generated from those surveys and analysing that volume of information was a challenge. It was noted that robust data is critical and analysing stock condition information would help inform the major works programme. The potential benefit for additional resource being established to assist with analysing the data gathered during the surveys was discussed, with it being considered that it would enable the department to properly and swiftly analyse the range of data, where blocks with particular investment needs could be proactively identified.

Recommendation One

There be consideration of additional resource being established to assist with analysing data gathered during stock condition surveys. It is considered that having a clear picture and analysis of the stock condition data will enable senior leaders and Members to prioritise investment based on resident safety and impact.

17. In response to block issues identified so far through stock condition surveys, the Group was advised that Category 1 hazards predominantly related to mould growth and missing CO and smoke alarms. This was also linked to resident vulnerabilities and working out where residents were not likely to report issues. For example, it was known that some residents had not reported certain issues such as damp and mould. The Group acknowledged that acceleration of the stock condition surveys may result in the identification of Category 1 hazards and recognised the importance of timely action and robust monitoring of the department's response to the hazards identified.

Performance of the electrical safety check programme

18. The Group have been provided with updates regarding the progress in completing electrical safety checks. It was noted that significant improvements had been made on completing electrical safety certificates, with it being confirmed that there was only 1 more communal block to test, although that would be more challenging as there was a requirement to ensure all residents are in at the time of the testing.

19. However, there were some access issues over the remaining properties to inspect. The process in relation to gaining access to properties for electrical testing was described to the Group, which involved an appointment letter being initially sent to the resident by the contractor. The Council would then also try to make contact if the resident did not respond to the appointment letter, and a final warning letter would then be issued and if necessary, legal action in the form of an injunction would be requested from the legal team. Members were advised that phone calls to residents were also made.

20. The steps as set out in the process had to be followed as in order to apply for an injunction if it was ultimately required, the Council would need to demonstrate that every other possible step had been exhausted. This would include providing copies of dated letters sent to the residents. It was noted that there were 191 cases where access could not be gained into those properties.

21. However, it was considered that from a tenant's perspective, a significant element of their issues related to contractor communication. For example, a resident may not have received the original appointment letter, so alarm could be caused when they received further letters requesting for contact to be made and noting the potential for legal action. It was suggested that the Council could work with Resident Associations to try and get them to assist.

22. Tenants noted difficulties in accommodating appointment times for safety checks and stock condition surveys because of work or family commitments. Tenants mentioned that contractors sometimes failed to show up for scheduled appointments which led to frustration. Members heard that officers were exploring whether multiple checks could be undertaken in a single visit. The Group agreed that this warranted further exploration as well as a department wide approach of making every contact count to gather information about the condition of homes and residents needs alongside ensuring that robust data systems are in place to record the information obtained.

23. The Group considered there was merit in promoting the reasons for the Council needing to gain access into properties as part of roadshow events and it was noted there was a commitment for a programme of roadshows next year, which could be used to better co-ordinate explanations for the health and safety benefits to residents allowing access to their properties for the necessary checks.

Performance in relation to fire remedial actions

24. Updates were provided on the work being undertaken in relation to Fire Risk Assessments (FRAs). Where actions had become overdue, Estate Services officers were carrying out bi-weekly inspections to ensure that communal areas and intake cupboards were free from combustible materials. In parallel, they were reviewing blocks to identify and address any other fire safety concerns within the communal areas. Members were advised there were new FRAs for high-rise buildings, which were being worked through with an aim for completion before April 2026. It was reported that as well as needing to complete the overdue FRAs reported by the regulator, additional new FRAs were being received. Officers were working on completing both the overdue actions and the new, incoming actions, but it was noted that there would eventually be a split in the data presented to the SHR, between older, overdue actions and new ones, so that it would be clear as to which they were.

25. Members were advised about the involvement of the London Fire Brigade (LFB) in regard to FRAs and it was confirmed that officers met regularly with the Borough Commander and the London Fire Brigade (LFB). However, the Council had a Building Safety Lead officer who was responsible for managing and signing off FRAs.

26. Members heard that the target for completion of serious actions was three months from the date of the Fire Risk Assessments. For those that were overdue, most were in progress which usually meant that a repair order had been raised, and that a contractor would be carrying out the work in the coming weeks.

Repairs

27. The Group have been provided with information in relation to the Council's repairs services. Repairs are central to a tenant's experience of the housing service so it is right that the Council's corporate plan is ambitious in its commitment that the Council "will ensure accountability on the Council's Housing repairs and cleaning, and all will be done promptly and to a high standard."

28. 80,000 repairs were completed last year with the majority being delivered by external contractors as part of the Area Repair Contracts (ARCs). The ARCs started in 2021 and end in September 2026. The Group were informed that a full review of the repairs process is underway, and the review has been informed by a resident focus group on repairs.

29. The Group was informed that there is an opportunity to use technology to improve repairs handling, for example with Netcall 2 coming in, there was the potential to take video calls with residents to look at repairs, rather than officers having to physically visit properties in all instances. This was seen to be providing residents with more choice, and this would initially be a pilot, to gain the trust of residents and to see how well it works.

30. Resident feedback on repairs includes delays in addressing repairs, repeated visits for the same problem, and contractors failing to complete jobs or providing adequate solutions. For example, some residents reported that contractors repeatedly patched leaks instead of addressing the root cause, leading to ongoing issues. This feedback reflects the Tenant Satisfaction Measure for satisfaction with repairs which was relatively low at 58% in 2024/25, an increase of 4% from 2023/24.

31. The Group was informed that the repairs review is considering the processes used by residents to report and track their repairs. Residents highlighted issues with the Council's online repair portal, noting that it lacked sufficient options to accurately report problems and suggested that features such as the ability to upload photos and receive real-time updates on repair progress would be beneficial. There was a request for better tracking and transparency in the repair process, with residents requesting a system that showed the progress of their reported issues, including who was handling their case and expected timelines. The Group heard that the Council has sought to learn from other landlords and has conducted visits to other councils, including Camden. The Group endorsed transforming the resident repair journey to ensure it is customer focussed, including providing greater opportunities to report and track repairs online in real time, similar to modern parcel delivery tracking systems. Members endorsed the plans to expand the use of online systems and were assured that the Council was committed to accessibility, ensuring that a non-digital option would always be available.

Recommendation Two

Improve the resident repair journey by reducing appointment windows and including a digital / online tracking element so that residents can track the raising of their repair order, view their appointment slot, track lateness and reschedule their appointment online if necessary as well as provide feedback on the service immediately after.

32. The Group discussed that the re-procurement of the repairs contracts presents an opportunity for tenants' voices to influence service design and for tenants to be meaningfully involved in decision making by co-designing the service. There was also an opportunity to strengthen resident involvement in robust contract monitoring to ensure a customer focussed approach to repairs handling which prioritises the quality of the tenant experience.

Recommendation Three

Co-design the repairs and maintenance contract specifications with residents and communicate with tenants how tenants' voice has influenced service design.

Recommendation Four

Use resident provided feedback and data in robust monitoring of repairs and maintenance contracts.

Resident Engagement

33. The task and finish group received some initial feedback from the Residents' Conference, which was held on 15th October with around 110 residents attending in total. Presentations at the conference did not just focus on responding to the Social Housing Regulator, but also in looking at improvements in other areas, such as a presentation on 'Empowering Residents' from the Resident Participation Manager, which was a newly created role where residents were asked for feedback on what housing services they would like to shape and how. Members were advised that the Conference had been really focused on workshop sessions and officers had been left with a large list of actions following good workshop discussions on topics such as clubrooms and gardens, as well as one on informal engagement.

34. The existing formal resident engagement structures were set out for the Task and Finish Group. There were 38 Resident Associations (with ongoing work to increase these in number), 4 Area Housing Panels, Co-op Forums, and the Borough Residents' Forum. The feedback from the Social Housing Regulator had been that this was a well-established formal engagement framework overall. However, Members noted that consideration was required into how the Borough Residents' Forum fit into the Council's new decision-making model, as Cabinet papers were no longer required to first be considered at the Housing Overview and Scrutiny Committee. The Borough Residents' Forum constitution and future meeting dates should therefore be revised and updated to reflect the change in the Council's governance.

Recommendation Five

The Borough Residents' Forum constitution and future meeting dates should therefore be revised and updated to reflect the change in the Council's governance.

35. The Group discussed a cultural shift that places residents first and people at the heart of decision making. This involves embedding a culture that recognises residents as experts in their own lived experience and reframing the Council's role - not as a landlord managing tenants but a partner alongside tenants working collaboratively together. During the review the Task and Finish Group has been joined by and met with residents who have shared valuable insights. It is acknowledged that incorporating resident voices into governance structures, such as Area Housing Panels and the Borough Residents' Forum brings substantial benefits. It is considered that there is value in residents continuing to play an active role in scrutinising the performance and monitoring delivery of the improvement plan.

Recommendation Six

Tennant and leaseholder representation be included in the governance arrangements monitoring performance and delivery of improvements to the Council's managed housing stock.

36. Resident Associations only covered around one third of the Council's housing stock, and there were a large number of estates with no Resident Associations. There was an aim to widen the group of residents so that there were more opportunities for service delivery contributions. They tended to be more leaseholder dominated, which had also meant that the Residents' Conference had been dominated to an extent with leasehold issues. It was noted that the feedback from the SHR referred to limited tenant-led engagement, as well as limited engagement opportunities for Resident Association members, weaknesses in tenant influence on decision making and tenant influence being poorly communicated.

37. The informal engagement processes around the time of the Social Housing Regulator inspection included Housing Community Champions, estate inspections led by Area Housing Managers which involved residents, focus groups, and a participation register with around 100 residents (not necessarily all from Resident Associations) registered following the Residents' Conference.

38. Since then, work had been done to increase the number of residents on the participation register to over 700, with over 500 tenants. Members were informed that focus groups had been held earlier in the year on repairs and complaints, as well as one on Resident Association accreditation. There had been four trial Housing Roadshows held in September, with over 200 residents in attendance. The roadshows had helped to engage more face-to-face with residents and increase visibility of a number of different Council teams.

39. Other areas of informal engagement were highlighted and included Readers Panels, where residents worked with council officers to redesign the performance information shared with the Area Housing Panels (these will be used from Q3 2025/26 onwards). Readers Panels have also been used to check the accessibility of easy-read versions of key policies. Another area of informal engagement included online surveys for new tenant welcome packs which would provide a better start for tenants in their new homes, as well as a Domestic Abuse policy being co-developed with survivors of domestic abuse.

40. The next steps for informal engagement were set out and included a calendar of engagement events for 2026, a quarterly Participation Register newsletter to raise awareness of upcoming events amongst residents, as well as enabling residents to see any outcomes following the focus groups they have been involved in. Since the establishment of the Resident Services department, it was noted that further communications would need to be done, such as more internal promotion within the Council as well as some external tenant engagement specialists being commissioned to review the changes made.

Recommendation Seven

Commission specialist external consultants on the engagement strategy, to include both the formal engagement structures including Residents Associations, and informal engagement processes, with a view to concluding their review by June 2026.

41. Members also considered the 2025 Tenant Satisfaction Measures. Overall tenant satisfaction had slightly improved on the previous year's results, increasing to 65% this year from 64% in 2024. The areas where tenants were most satisfied included satisfaction that their homes are safe (70%) and that the Council treated tenants with fairness and respect (78%). Overall, there was improvement across seven of the 12 Tenant Perception measures compared.

42. In 2024/25 62% of tenants were satisfied that the Council kept tenants informed about things that matter to them. During the course of the review residents identified a broader need to improve communication including responsiveness, simplicity and clarity. Tenants confirmed that they received Homelife newsletter but did not necessarily retain copies to refer back to, addressed letters were more likely to be read and greater use of SMS text messages in the future was welcomed. The Group considered that work should be done to improve communication standards.

43. The current process for data collection was explained, which involved one big satisfaction survey undertaken in June/July that was submitted to the Social Housing Regulator annually. However, from next year this would be undertaken on a monthly basis. The annual submission to the Social Housing regulator still needed 1,100 tenants to be surveyed each year, which was a set target. Moving to a monthly basis would involve surveying around 90 households per month. The data over the 12-month period would then be sent to the Social Housing Regulator. It was noted this change would provide a more real time picture of tenants' perceptions of the service. Members also noted that the consultants responsible for the surveys could tailor them to any format required and ensure that all surveys were representative so that the overall sample size was representative of the borough's demographics.

44. Members noted that in the past the Tenant Satisfaction Measures had been presented to the Housing Overview and Scrutiny Committee, and whilst they had not been selected by Committee Members in their work programming this year, the Task and Finish Group considered that they should be presented on an annual basis, as including them on an agenda and discussing the results in a public meeting would help to better highlight tenants' perceptions of the service.

Recommendation Eight

The Tenant Satisfaction Measures be presented to the Housing Overview and Scrutiny Committee on an annual basis.

Customer care and Complaints

45. The statistics for complaints were considered by the Task and Finish Group. The upheld or partially upheld complaints at 64% were considered by Members to be a significantly high percentage, but the Group was advised this reflected a change in the way that complaints were dealt with, as well as the change in the approach from the Housing Ombudsman. An expression of dissatisfaction would now be logged as a stage 1 complaint, with a view that all complaints were now considered to be opportunities to learn, which would gradually help drive improvements for the service overall. It was noted that presentations at the ARCH conference had demonstrated that housing departments with an increase in complaints often correlated well with increased overall satisfaction.

46. Members were also advised that it was quite common for residents to complain about a number of different issues at one time, and there could be a case that the department had upheld one of those issues raised. For example, it could be concluded that all of the repair issues were dealt with adequately as requests for service, but the initial correspondence contained a complaint at that earlier date which was not treated at Stage 1 of the complaint's procedure. It was added that if complaints were not partially upheld at that stage, the Housing Ombudsman would find maladministration when they investigated and that the Council were being far more robust in recognising where learning would need to be made.

47. In relation to vulnerable residents, Members heard that the department was working with other departments to share data on vulnerable residents where appropriate. Notably, there was a piece of work being undertaken in liaison with colleagues in Children's and Adults Services to ensure that all teams had the same accessible data on vulnerable residents. Residents would be approached directly to explain their vulnerabilities and also those of other people in their households. Languages as well as any other adjustments would be factored in, and residents would be asked how they would prefer to be contacted.

Housing Ombudsman and Building Safety Regulator

48. An update was provided to the task and finish group on the Housing Ombudsman's investigation. It was explained that the Housing Ombudsman had asked for a lengthy list of evidence, for example internal working procedures, for which the Council had been given a deadline of 29th November to provide the requested information. That evidence and material was submitted and is in the process of being reviewed by the Housing Ombudsman. It is not expected that the Council would hear back until later in 2026.

49. Likewise, an update was also provided on the current position with the Building Safety Regulator. Members were advised that on a number of cases the BSR has requested further evidence be provided to aid their assessment.

50. It was therefore not possible for the task and finish group to have considered any findings of improvement actions from the Housing Ombudsman and Building Safety Regulator, as was initially envisaged.

CONCLUDING REMARKS

51. The Group thanks officers who have supported the review and residents who have shared their insights during the course of the review. This report summarises what Members have considered throughout the review and presents their recommendations. Subject to approval by the Housing Overview and Scrutiny Committee, the report will be presented to the Cabinet for their consideration of the recommendations.

52. The progress and work undertaken to date, including noting the wider Improvement Plan was due to be considered by Cabinet at its January meeting, was acknowledged. However, whilst noting that the timings of any reassessment and/or re-inspection were at the discretion of the regulator, the Task and Finish Group recognised the importance of openness and transparency and considered that the improvement journey still had some way to go before the Council was able to meet the commitment to achieving the best possible rating but at the very least achieving a C2 grading. Therefore, whilst the review was concluding for now before the pre-election period, Members considered that the matter remain as a priority inclusion for the Housing Overview and Scrutiny Committee's work programme post-election.

Recommendation Nine

The Housing Overview and Scrutiny Committee continue to scrutinise the matter and oversee progress and include it on their work programme post-election.
