Reasons

On 26 November 2025 Shrimp and Wings Ltd applied under Section 17 of the Licensing Act 2003 for a premises licence to be granted for the premises known as Shrimp and Wings, 127 Queens Road, London SE15 2ND.

The licensing officer informed the sub-committee that one other person had submitted a further representation in advance of the hearing and that this had been circulated to all parties.

The applicant described the premises as a food-led business and explained that alcohol would be sold strictly secondary to food, there would be no vertical drinking. The applicant emphasised that the premises was not a bar or a club, it was a restaurant. They were local to the area and had lived there for over 20 years. They had fully engaged with the responsible authorities and had agreed to all conditions proposed by them.

The applicant understood that concerns had been raised by residents about antisocial behaviour and considered the conditions regarding external CCTV, staff training, incident logs, clear controls on customers and delivery drivers would address such concerns.

The music was tightly controlled and ended at 23:00 hours. Whilst live music did not form part of the business, the application had been made to allow the premises the possibility of hosting live music on occasion. The applicant pointed out that environmental health had not raised any objections to the application.

The premises did not intend to serve alcohol earlier than 10:00 hours, the reason they had applied to supply alcohol from 07:00 hours was in case there was an issue with bottles remaining on display whilst they were open. The premises had utilised Temporary Event Notices (TENs) since opening just before Christmas, this enabled them to serve cocktails and bottled beers along with food.

The applicant confirmed the premises has two toilets, one of which was in the area highlighted in blue on the floor plan. The premises could seat twenty-eight people inside and they hoped to accommodate some people outside in the future, should a pavement licence be secured.

The applicant was keen to emphasise that they intended to work with their neighbours to address any concerns they had, and encouraged residents to contact them in the event of issues.

Five other persons submitted representations in advance of the hearing, three of these were not in attendance but the sub-committee gave full consideration to their written representations.

Two other persons were present, both resided within the same property but made representations separately. They raised concerns in respect of noise disturbance as well as the prevention of harm to children. They questioned whether effective sound-proofing had been installed as they suffered significant noise disturbance in November, when the premises had a live saxophonist at an event. They had attempted to discuss this with the premises at the time but were met with hostility and a door being shut in their face.

The applicant explained that, when renovating the premises from an estate agents to a restaurant, they installed soundproof plasterboards on the ceiling. The premises had an event in November with live music, at this point there were still holes in the ceiling for electrical works and they believed this was responsible for the disturbance residents noted. The holes have since been filled and they did not expect the residents to encounter the same issue again. They intended to regularly check the front and back of the building for noise disturbance and keep a log of that.

The applicant was not present for much of the event in November and was not aware residents had received such hostility. They would ensure that residents had their contact details for any future issues and that staff would be trained to be more sensitive to their neighbours and to know how to speak to them in the event of any issues.

The sub-committee noted that the responsible authorities had withdrawn their representations after extensive conditions had been agreed with the applicant, including limiting the sale of alcohol to those taking tables meals and ancillary to their meal. They also noted that the environmental protection team had not submitted any concerns regarding the sound-proofing of the premises.

To advance the licensing objectives, the sub-committee considered the supply of alcohol should be no earlier than 10:00. A period of half an hour drinking-up time was necessary to enable customers to finish their drinks prior to the premises closing, the supply of alcohol should therefore conclude at 23:30.

The sub-committee were mindful that the premises intended to utilise their outside space should a pavement licence be obtained in the future; a condition ensuring any outdoor furniture be rendered unusable after 22:00 would prevent the furniture causing a nuisance once the premises was closed. A condition requiring a contact number for the premises to be displayed would ensure that residents would be able to raise any issues that arose promptly.

The sub-committee also made the following recommendations:

1. That the premises does not use single-use plastics and instead uses polycarbonates and/or other safe reusable containers.
2. That that premises encourages patrons not to drive to the premises and to travel via public transport or by active travel; this should be posted on any social media accounts, websites and promotional material related to the premises location.
3. That the premises shall invite local residents to quarterly meetings to address any issues that may arise.

The sub-committee were satisfied that the conciliated conditions, additional conditions imposed by the sub-committee and the recommendations would address the concerns raised by the residents and promote the licensing objectives. The licence was granted on this basis.

In making this decision, the sub-committee considered all relevant factors, the four licensing objectives, and concluded that this decision was appropriate and proportionate.

Appeal rights

The applicant may appeal against any decision:

- a) To impose conditions on the licence
- b) To exclude a licensable activity or refuse to specify a person as premises supervisor.

Any person who made relevant representations in relation to the application who desires to contend:

- a) That the licence ought not to have been granted; or
- b) That, on granting the licence, the licensing authority ought not to have imposed different or additional conditions to the licence, or ought to have modified them in a different way may appeal against the decision.

Any appeal must be made to the Magistrates' Court for the area in which the premises are situated. Any appeal must be commenced by notice of appeal given by the appellant to the justices' clerk for the Magistrates' Court within the period of 21 days beginning with the day on which the appellant was notified by the licensing authority of the decision appealed against.
